

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION AND IMPLICATION

This chapter consists of two points; it is about conclusion and implication.

A. Conclusion

Based on the result of analysis in the previous chapter, the researcher concludes that reinforcement method gave the positive effect in increasing students' tenses understanding. It is seen the effect size was 1,96, it was moderate ($0,2 < 0,72 < 0,8$) and the students' prior knowledge of tenses is still low, it is provided in the data that most of the students mean score in pre-test was 41,03 and it increased after applying reinforcement method. The students' mean score in post-test was 54,11.

B. Implication

Based on the discussion and conclusions of this research, the development of this tenses understanding with reinforcement method, can be found high implications when compared with the textbook media that has been the most dominant use by teachers and students at school. The implications contained in this research are as follows:

1. The method that used will provide practical contribution for students in English learning process especially tenses understanding, which besides facilitate students in learning, this method can also improve the effectiveness and improve their learning result. Thus, the method used can be used as consideration and solution to overcome the students' tenses understanding especially on the six english tenses.

2. The application of instructional media in the form of the use of methods requires readiness of students to implement learning independently so that the students can get maximum results as well. this method will facilitate students to learn independently according to the speed of their respective understanding without having to always rely on textbooks as teaching materials from the teachers.
3. The results obtained from this research indicate that this method is feasible to be used as well as effective and attractive for students.
